

Surfers register views on town

A COMMUNITY website set up a month ago already has more than 100 registered users.

The Cherque Farm estate website, Lee-on-the-Solent, has had 700 people visiting the site since it went online on April 15.

It has a forum for people to vent their views on issues in Lee.

Founder Daniel Fearnley, 28, said: 'The number of people has exceeded all expectations. We wanted a site which would give people information on their local area and it seems to be very popular.'

He set up the site with friend Martin Furnell, of Runcorn, Liverpool, after being impressed with a similar site in Didcot, Oxfordshire, where he used to live.

The site address is www.cherque-farm.com.
